

Henry Davis York firm profile

Henry Davis York has a different feel and that's deliberate.

With 49 partners and more than 200 professionals we have the advantage of being big enough to attract high-end clients and top-quality work, but small enough to remain personal and to provide hands-on advice and experience. We are often featured in the media for our involvement in major cases, recognised for our unique culture and awarded for our successes.

We are one of Sydney's most established law firms with market-leading expertise and a second-to-none client list spanning all industry sectors, particularly financial services and public sector. Our full spectrum of services includes banking and finance, restructuring and insolvency, property environment and construction, litigation and dispute resolution, funds management, corporate and commercial and workplace relations and safety.

Our expertise and recognition extends well beyond our Martin Place office to national and international assignments including numerous cross-border transactions and complex international cases. If necessary, we can respond quickly to support our clients' specific needs wherever they are in the world.

As blue chip leaders in their field, our clients expect the best. They know that relationships are at the heart of our business and enjoy working with us because we're personable and down to earth. Clients rely on us to provide advice that is astute and commercial. They appreciate our genuine interest in their businesses and the way we respond quickly and creatively.

Henry Davis York's excellence as a law firm and its positive and forward-thinking culture has also been widely recognised by independent sources. We have been acknowledged by the International Who's Who of Banking for our expertise in banking and financial services and have received international awards for our position as "Australia's Leading Restructuring and Insolvency Firm". We are also known experts in a number of other areas including debt capital markets, environmental law, information technology, intellectual property, workplace relations and safety, dispute resolution and telecommunications and have received regular mentions in influential directories such as Chambers Global, Asia Pacific Legal 500, IFLR and PLC Which Lawyer?

HDY also takes it's responsibility to the wider environment seriously. Our lawyers are encouraged to offer support through a range of pro bono advice, support for charity and community programs and initiatives. Sustainability is part of our business strategy. We choose to produce an annual sustainability report which has received accolades such as Best Report in the Professional Services sector.

It's our relationships, experts and excellence that form the spectrum of who we are.
